Weekday Masses and other events (Cycle 2 readings)

This Week

This week Fr Petroc is off on his post Christmas break from Monday to Friday, so there will be no masses on those days.

More importantly it is half term. Happy holidays to all the children and students.

Lent 2020

Ash Wednesday is now just over one week away.

A good start to Lent will help make it more meaningful and helpful. To get a good start, prepare for it, and think about how you will observe Lent.

One new start in life is never enough, we need to repeatedly make new starts because we repeatedly fall back into our old ways and habits and need pulling up short.

It is all too easy to not think about Lent with everything else that happens around us and all the demands on our time, and we often join in late with some sort of token gesture, thinking next year I will do something that makes a difference.

Well next year is here and there is time to get ready, but it is running out.

Some questions you might ask yourself.

If I died today, what would I regret not doing; and is there anything I could start doing in Lent to put this right?

What would I really like to change about myself; and what could I do in Lent to start making the changes I want?

What do I wish was different in my life, and if it can be changed, is there anything I could start in Lent that would help towards this?

Lent is a time of grace, when we seek help from God: but it is also a time of conversion when we try to change our lives by taking one step closer to the Kingdom each day.
